Former staff member uses writing talent in WAC trainee program

Katie Jewell, last years feature editor for the Lions Roar, is now studying to be a combat reporter, at Fort Benjamin Harrison, North Carolina.

The school is very selective. To enter you must pass two security tests. She had to send all the material that she had written for the Lions Roar to headquarters for approval.

Fort Benjamin Harrison is the only school of this type for the Armed Forces. There are Screaming Eagles, a special group of the Air Forces, and the Green Berets in training there.

Katie is the only 18 year old in her classes and there are two other girls in a class of 175 men. Most of the men have their master's degree and are 24 or older. Katie says that they are a great help and have to approve of whom she dates.

The school is much like a college campus and is close to Indianapolis. Katie says the school is terribly exciting. Her classes consist of International Protocall, (learning not to offend someone of another country), Radio and Television, Writing Own Materials for Radio and Television, Interviewing (personalities like Bob Hope or one of the Generals) and Communism. She sometimes spends six hours a day at a typewriter and one day she spent two hours watching herself on Television for criticism.

Katie gets up at five a.m. and classes are over at 4 p.m. with "gobs" of homework.

Katie left in June for six months of basic training at Fort McClellam, Alabama.

Katie also has an older sister, Natalie, in the service in the Far East.

SHSHS hosts college reps

Members from seven different Colleges visited St. Helens High School on Oct. 19th. They included members from Oregon State, Oregon College of Education, Oregon Technical Institute, Portland State, Southern Oregon College of Education, Eastern Oregon College of Education, and the University of Oregon. The representatives stayed from nine to twelve during which time they spoke to all the classes in a general assembly. After this they invited the seniors to attend two special question groups on the colleges of their choice and the juniors were invited to attend one.

Iowa Tests administered

Juniors spent Tuesday morning, Oct. 13, taking the Iowa achievement tests.

The Iowa Tests have been published since 1942. The first had nine parts. The version which the juniors took had eight separate parts, Reading, Comprehension and Vocabulary, Language Arts, Usage and Spelling, Mathematics, Social Studies, Science, and the Use of Sources. Each of these were designed to measure the student's ability to succeed in high school and college.

These tests concentrate on broad intellectual skills and understanding and on ability to use what one has learned. They took about three and a half hours, where the tests taken in years before took seven hours and fifty minutes. Andy Knudsen, junior adviser, made the decision to change to the shorter version and coordinated the program.

The purposes of the test are to survey one's knowledge and to get a context of one's ability, as well as to see how much has been achieved since the ninth grade. A side benefit is the strengthening of the educational program of the school. The information gained from the results may be used to figure out a program for the class or for a special group.

The ITED, Iowa Test of Educational Development, is published and processed by SRA, a subsidiary of IBM. The test is graded and marked by computer and is scored as to the number right compared with other high school scores throughout the country.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

One of the main attractions in the Lions Roar last year was Kar Korner. This is an interesting column for us boys. I know there are enough cars to do this column. Please if there is a way to write Kar Korner put it in the Lions Roar.

John Hamilton

ED, Note: In reply to many requests and your letter, Kar Korner will be in future issues of the Lions Roar.

Pre SAT Tests given

Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests (Pre SAT) were given to the juniors on Oct. 20. The cost of the test was $1.50. The test lasted two hours and is used to see if a student would have a good chance in college. The test is broken into two main headings, English and Math and is graded on a twenty to eighty scale. These tests are just a preliminary to the SAT tests the seniors take at a Portland school. The SAT tests start Nov. 7th and go through April 17th with one test a month.

New regulations recommended in committee report

The Student-Faculty Committee submitted a report to Student Council on Oct. 2, stating that after a review of the suggestions of the Faculty and Student Council, the student-faculty committee has revised their recommendations as follows:

A. A student holding one of these offices can hold no other: Student Body Office, Class or club president (except band or choir), class or club secretary (except band or choir), cheerleader, or Mascot.

B. A student holding two of these offices can hold no other: class or club office other than president or secretary, band or choir office or Editor of the annual or newspaper.

C. A student resigning from any of these offices may not accept any other office during the same tenure period.

D. A student may not be a candidate for more than one office at a time.

E. The position of team captain will not affect the recommendations listed above.

The committee suggests that these recommendations, if adopted by the Faculty and Student Council, be subject to review at least once a year, and at any other time when the formation of a club or a revision in the constitution of an existing class or club creates a need for such a review. It is also suggested that the vice president of the Student Body be charged with the responsibility of seeing that these regulations are observed and that all organizations hold their elections at the designated time.

A revolving trophy is given for the best photo of the exhibit. Stayton High School is the defending champion. Seniors may compete for a $250 Linfield scholarship. The rules state that all photos should be for publication in a school or community newspaper or yearbook and should tell a story to the viewer. All entries will be based on composition, idea, news values, exposure, negative quality and printing. The entry deadline is not until April, but anyone interested should start planning ahead, according to the communique.

Kar Korner

Well here goes with the first Kar Korner of the year. To all new students who do not know what Kar Korner is, it is a column that describes some of the hot and some of the not-so-hot cars (Kar Kruddy) that are owned by SHSHS students.

Clifford Austin's almost new, slightly worn, 1970 Plymouth Duster is the first to be featured. The violet bomb came with a 318 cubic inch engine, forcing out 235 hp. A torque flite transmission, black vinyl bucket seats and nifty cigarette lighter also came with the deal.

Cliff added four chromes and four red line tires to enhance the looks of his machine, and says the only future improvements he plans are a stereo tape deck and a girl. Good luck, Cliff. —Mot Serahnil

Girls League sells mints

Van Duyn mints were distributed to the girls at SHSH to sell for Girls League starting on Oct. 8. Bill Westram, a representative of Van Duyn Candy Company, used a skit to give the girls a few instructions on how to sell the candy.

The sale of candy has been a tradition in Girls League for several years. The money received for the sale is used in financing the club's many activities. The sale will last for two weeks.

GARY EDWARDS lowers the boom as he sends Newberg back through the air with his crashing tackle.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS of the week are Gary Edwards and Dan Durbin.

Lettermen take part in clean-up

For the last few years the lettermen of St. Helens High School have actively participated in the city wide clean-up of St. Helens and Columbia City. They have gotten up early in the morning to take part in the iniation of Spring Lettermen after which they participated in the clean-up campaign for the Chamber of Commerce.

The boys have picked up literally everything from the bathroom sink to the thorny trimmings off the garden roses.

This year the campaign was a little different. The people of the area decided to have a fall clean-up, on Sept. 26, so the city took it upon themselves, but there was so much trash left that they asked the Lettermen's club to help. There were no initiates and not so many members participated because the clean-up was the day after a football game.

This year the boys rode around in dump trucks and picked up the trash for the usual land fill in one of the gullies near town.

This is only one of the public services of the group. During lunch every Tuesday after home games they have been cleaning up the High School field for the next game.

Lions Win one Lose one

ASTORIA

The St. Helens Lions hosted the Astoria Fishermen Oct. 2, to dunk them 29-0. Outstanding players of the game, announced by Coach Kocer were Al Pidcock and Gary Cooper.

When asked how the team did Mr. Kocer replied, "Everyone did great offensively and defensively." He commented that the defense unit, called the "Black Bandits," did a tremendous job. They held Astoria to 1 yard rushing in the first half and only 12 yards rushing second half. On the passing defense, St. Helens held Astoria down to 31 yards passing, making a total of 44 yards gained by Astoria.

Turning in good performances on defense were Mike McCain, Al Pidcock, Mike Peterson and Gary Cooper.

Chris Knudsen had a good night, throwing a touchdown pass to Don Mekosky and running back a punt for another touchdown.

The tender toe of Ken Shadley did an amazing job as he kicked a 29 yard field goal.

Stan Mendenhall, Jeff Carpenter, Gary Edwards, Jerry Fast, and Dan Durbin all did great jobs carrying the ball and John Heller had a good night, completing 4 out of 5 passes.

"All over it was a very satisfactory victory," said Coach Kocer.

J.V.'s Follow Varsity's Lead

Tillamook Astoria

ASTORIA

The J.V.'s worked hard but fumbles and poor pass protection seemed to have hurt them as they were downed by Astoria 38-14, on their home field, Oct. 7.

The J.V.'s went in at half time 14-14. Then Astoria blocked a punt and intercepted a pass for scores, which put them way out ahead. Mike Weber ran the ball for about 150 yards total. Rick Russel ran back a punt to put St. Helens in scoring range. He also ran the ball on a reverse for 40 yards. Tom Barker once again had a good night passing and Randy May was commended for his fine defensive job.

TILLAMOOK

The J.V. Lions seemed to follow the Varsity as they won a smashing victory, 31-0, in a home game against Tillamook, Oct. 1.

Mike Webber ran the ball well over a 100 yards to make most of the yardage for the team. The coaches commented that Tom Barker, Quarterback, had a very good night throwing to Rick Russel.

Offensive lineman did a good job of opening holes. Two of the outstanding linemen were Larry Howell and Roy Oliver on offense squad. Linebackers Mike Weber and Roy Oliver, linemen Bruce Holz and Bob Davis proved to be very strong defensively.

Cross Country Team wins one ties one

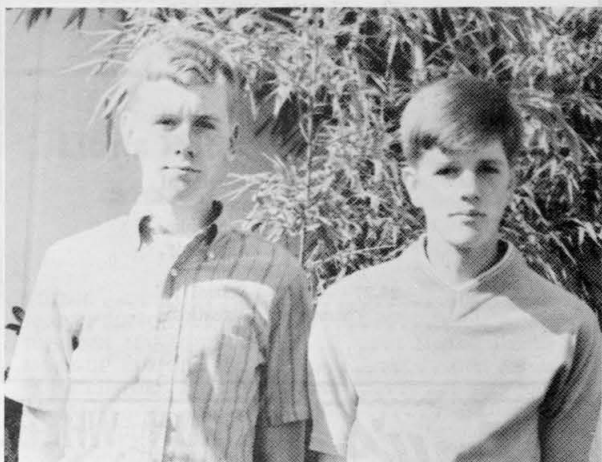

TILLAMOOK

Cross Country men turned in another victory, but a close one in the Tillamook meet, Oct. 5.

Outstanding runner for St. Helens was Tim Wilson, who won third. Dave Nickelson placed fifth, Gary Barger, sixth, Arzie Walters, 10th, Gordon McWhirter, 15th, Dave Britton, 19th, and Eric Dahlgren, 20th.

McMINNVILLE

St. Helens men tied for first with Dallas at McMinnville Oct. 12.

CROSS COUNTRY PLAYERS of the week are Dave Nickelson and Gary Barger.
