LAURIE BROCK

Q: How do you like being a cheerleader?
A: I've had lots of fun so far this year, and I'm really looking forward to basketball season. But its been a lot different than I thought it would be.
Q: What do you think of the school spirit?
A: It could be a lot worse.
Q: Do you feel the cheerleaders have it all together?

A: No. We practice a lot but not enough to get it all together.

Q: What made you want to become a cheerleader?

A: No certain reason — I guess since 7th grade I just always have wanted to see what it was like.

"Let Us Give Thanks" Assembly Held

ONE OF THE MANY clubs preforming for the Boys League Thanksgiving Day Assembly held

Girls League sponsors can drive

Life was very exciting around SHSHS throughout the week of Nov. 13 through Nov. 17. The Girls League sponsored the annual Girls League week which involved many new and different things throughout our halls. The women faculty members challenged the men faculty to a volleyball game during A and B lunches on Tuesday Nov. 14. It was a three game match with the men winning the first and third games. During the second game, games. During the first and third games. During the second game, the men decided to let the feminine gender have a few points and to the surprise of many, the women won game two.

Those teachers on the women's team included Miss Port, Mrs. VanGrunsven, Miss Roberts, Miss Harrison, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Welch, Miss Suelle and Mrs. Mrs. Welch, Miss Suelle and Mrs. Chiotti. Those men on the champion team included Mr. Cosgriff, Mr. Kocer, Mr. Green, Mr. Amos, Mr. Perry, Mr. O'Toole and Mr. Stewart. Referees for this event were Donna Waite and Jean Mendenhall. Glenna Mueller served as score-keeper.

In order for a person to be admitted into the gym to watch the faculty volleyball game one must bring a can of food to exchange for a ticket.

During A and B lunches on Wednesday Nov. 15, a carnival was held. One booth had all pastries and candies. There was a fish pond with white elephant prizes, and a balloon pop and baseball throw which had candy for prizes. To be eligible to play these games, a student must have had a can of food exchange for one ticket. These tickets were redeemable at any of the booths or they could be kept for and used for admittance into the dance which was held on Friday, Nov. 17 during pep assembly schedule. The music was provided by the juke box

All of the canned food that was collected throughout Girls' League week was turned over to welfare families so that they could have a nice Thanksgiving

"Life with Father" successful

A little bit of Broadway touched SHSHS when "Life With Father" was presented on Nov. 16, 17, and

The head of the house, Father,

The head of the house, Father, was played by Steve DeShazer. Father is a businessman and wants his home run as a business. But his wife Vinnie, played by Sue Hamilton, somehow always manages to get her way.

The rest of the family consists of their girl-shy eldest son, Clarence, played by Bill Perkins; their enterprising second son, played by Ray Bartley. Their ten-year-old son Whitney was played by Terry Tracey. The "baby" of the family is played by Warren Ward, a sixth grader from McBride. from McBride.

from McBride.
Father hates to have relatives or friends stay over in his house, so Vinnie doesn't tell him that Cousin Cora (Clarinda Hanson) and her friend Mary Skinner (Maria Warneke) are coming until it is too late.
While talking to Mary, Father recalls that he has never been baptized. Vinnie is shocked, and wants to have him baptized right away. He won't because he be-lieves she will be able to work everything out and get him into Cora and Mary come back just in time for Clarence to get his suit and to see Father baptized.

Other members of the cast are Rhonda Dawson, who played Margaret the cook. The many maids were portrayed by Nancy Keene as Annie, Kerry Mason as Delia, Jean Mendenhall as Nora, and Lori Hudson as Maggie.
Those people who worked behind

Those people who worked behind Thosepeople who worked behind the scenes deserve credit and recognition. Some of these people are Thomas Cosgriff, director; Colleen Crouse, assistant director; Sheree Bogardus, stage manager; Al Major and Karen Strand, lights; Lori Hudson, make-up; Mike Gilbert, sound; Karen Ward, properties; and the Technical Theatre Class, construction.

Other productions that are planned for this school year are an old-fashioned melodrama scheduled for February 22 and 23, and a musical comedy, "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," which is scheduled to be pre-sented on May 3, 4, and 5.

The annual Boys' League Thanksgiving Assembly was held on November 21, 1972 on schedule

The assembly started with the Choir singing "Both Sides Now" accompanied by Twana Bates on the piano and Ralph Painter on the drums. Mr. Gordon Hilstad conducted the choir, after which the various clubs and organizations around SHSHS presented a 5-7 minute skit on the subject of "Let Us Give Thanks".

Student conduct

Open Campus? The School Board and Administration may consider it if we, as a student body, try a little harder to act like responsible young adults.

Leaving lunch trays, and napkins on the tables, as well as throwing food, is no way to prove that we are responsible young adults.

Student Conduct in Assemblies student Conduct in Assemblies has been very rude and we cer-tainly have not acted as students our age should. Talking, whistling, and catcalls should not be heard during someone's per-formance or speech, but it goes

These few things surely aren't going to get us an open campus, but maybe if we try harder and act like seniors, juniors, and sophomores, the delegation who goes to the School Board meeting will have a chance to help prove ourselves.

Ross visits SHSHS

On Friday, November 17, Richard Ross from KGW news came to SHSHS to speak to Mrs. Denisons' Mass Media classes about mass communication.

Ross began his presentation with the history of mass communication, stating that the telephone was the first method of spoken mass media. He then stated that television became the next important step to mass communication, and that more people get the news from television than any other media including the newspapers. This is because when a person reads the news-paper he reads only what he wants to. When news is reported on television it is the news that is picked by the staff and one must listen to it if the television is on.

Ross then went on defend the news media against those who claim that only bad news is reported. He did this by news is reported. He did this by defining news as "the unusual, unexpected" happenings in the world. If this weren't so, such things as reporting how many kids went to school on a certain day would be included in the news and would make it very boring. He also explained that there are only 30 people on the KGW news staff. Ten of these are reporters and 10 are photographers with the rest being secretaries.

with the rest being secretaries, etc. In order for a person to be a part of newscasting, he must be a part of newscasting, he must be a college graduate.

A question and answer period followed. Students were given samples of videotape, pictures, and film used by the staff.

When asked if a reporter should just give the news or interpret it, Ross answered that a good reported tells all sides of the news and should not opinionate. The news should not be biased.

In his answers to other

In his answers to other questions, he stated that most of the stories reported on television are gotten from reporters, and not commentators or those who report the news. He also explained that national and internal and intern report the news. He also ex plained that national and inter national news was sent to the station on videotape shortly be-fore it goes on the air. He also commented on the cable system of the future. If this system is ever put to use, it will allow people to have a vast net-work of communication between work of communication between themselves and other networks which could include local or national government, news-papers, or other sources of in-formation. The system would be somewhat like telephone only on a much wider basis.

Mass media classes have also had a guest speaker from the Oregonian, Larry McClung.

BROKEN BARRICADES

In the course of a week, I have become hooked on Procal Harum. You other fans out there know what I mean. Its not very hnow what I mean. Its not very hard to do, just listen to Broken Barricades once or twice, and let yourself be taken over by the magic of their music. This isn't exactly their newest album, in fact, I think it's about a year and a half old. I'd buy this rather than their newest their their newes a half old. I'd buy this rather than their newest, that "live at Edmonton, Alberta", mainly because of the excellent guitar work of their old guitarist, Robin Trower. Why they dropped him and picked up on David Ball, who never seems to change his style and always treats the notes the never seems to change his style and always treats the notes the same way, is a mystery to me. Trower, or "Mr. Fuzz Tone" as he is referred to by a guitarist in Portland, is definately better than the aforementioned Ball. Other than the change in guitarists', there has been only one other minor change. That change has been the acquisition of an organ player to take the of an organ player to take the burden off of Chris Coppins, the bass player's shoulders. What this guys name is I don't know. Other members of the group include Gary Brooker, the group's lead singer and piano player, and B. J. Wilson, percussion

Together, they form, in my opinion, one of the greatest of all the English groups, and there's a lot of good ones, too. If, until now, you haven't heard their music, or heard of them, it their music, or heard of them, it would be an excellent step forward to borrow one of their albums from somebody, or buy one yourself. I recommend "Broken Barricades" to start out with, although most anything they put out is good.

Oh, I forgot to mention one member of the group, Keith Reid. He is the non-performing member who writes all the lyrics to their songs.
